WUNDERCAMERA

ECLECTIC LAB OF PROJECTS

A journey that runs across the Indian continent through 9 antique Indian sari, coming from different parts of India.

Some classics Pijamas and new models become unique pieces, realized with parts of old saris combined with technical nylon, flanked by a new and unique proposal, of old saris combined with technical nylon, flanked by a new and unique proposal, studied for this collaboration with Wundercameralab, every piece is unique and different from the others, realized with an old sari and embroidered with the scarabeo, an ancient symbol of life and creativity.

The project discusses on the theme of travelling:

the essentiality of functional design by Pijama meets the research of unicity in the stories that Wundercameralab wants to tell.

LET'S GO SOMEWHERE!

Two practice little bags in one that you can easily transform, using the sparkling Sari faces or the "ready to go" nylon; take your Tandem with you during your trips, as a daywear bag or as a clutch during your nights.

SAMOSA, ANYONE?

Dreaming fantastic crispy samosas, we started thinking in a triangle way. A geometric clutch with a double soul, a folded keychain and a triangle purse; suggestions from faraway , thinking about getting lost in the street of India.

we write the beginning of a story on the notebook and we left you some traces. use everything to build your own story: write down travel tips, collect something in the box, leave a message in the water, fix your thoughts with the tape. Compose your journey while using your travel journal; as famous authors have done you don't have to leave your sofa: make your journey and dream big.

DON'T CALL ME CLASSIC

classics Pijamas have traveled on the silk road until India! they need to be strong and practice with a technical waterproof nylon and a military nylon ripstop, but they were fascinated by the beautiful indian sari.

A new exotic look for classic pieces.

pijama

Pijama was born in Milan, back in 2006, from an idea by Monica Battistella, fashion designer, and sergio Gobbi, architect. They realized that abandoned stocks of fabrics in the heart of Milano's fashion district could be brought to a new life, creating scratchproof soft cases for computers and iPods, and later for iPads and iPhones.
